Morehouse College

Morehouse College, in the city of Atlanta, Georgia, is operated by the American Baptist Home Mission Society, of New York, for the education of Negro young men, with special reference to the preparation of ministers and teachers.

History

The College was organized in the year 1867, in the city of Augusta, Georgia, under the name of "The Augusta Institute." In 1879, under the presidency of Rev. Joseph T. Robert, LL.D. (1871-1884), it was removed to Atlanta and incorporated under the name "Atlanta Baptist Seminary." At this stage of its growth the institution owned only one building, that a comparatively small three-story structure, located near what is now the Terminal Station. President Robert was succeeded by President Samuel Graves, D.D., in 1885. Dr. Graves served as president until 1890, continuing as Professor of Theology for four years longer. In 1889, as the surroundings of the old location in Atlanta had become unfavorable, a new site was secured, and in the spring of 1890 the school was removed to its present location. In the autumn of this year President George Sale (1890-1906) entered upon his duties. In 1897 amendments to the charter were secured, granting full college powers and changing the name of the institution to

"Atlanta Baptist College." In 1906 President Sale resigned to become Superintendent of Education of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, and he was succeeded by President John Hope, who had been a professor on the faculty since 1898. By a vote in 1912 of the Board of Trustees, concurred in by the American Baptist Home Mission Society, and by a change in 1913 of the charter granted by the State of Georgia, the name of the institution became "Morehouse College," in honor of Rev. Henry L. Morehouse, D.D., Corresponding Secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission Society and the constant friend and benefactor of the Negro race. In the fall of 1918 the College became affiliated with the general organization of the Students Army Training Corps.

Campus

The campus is thirteen acres in extent. It occupies one of the highest points of land in the city, 1,100 feet above sea-level, and commands a fine view of the city and surrounding country. For beauty and healthfulness the situation could not be surpassed. The property is on West Fair Street, at the junction of Chestnut Street, within half an hour's walk from the post-office and railroad stations. Electric cars marked "West Fair—Lee Street" leave the corner of Broad and Marietta Streets, and the Terminal Station, every twenty minutes, direct for the college.

Buildings

Graves Hall, erected in 1889, at a cost of $28,000, and named in honor of President Graves, is the chief college dormitory. The building has four stories above the basement, is beautifully faced with white marble, and is lighted by electricity.

Quarles Hall, erected in 1898 at a cost of $14,000, and named in honor of Rev. Frank Quarles, for many years pastor of Friendship Baptist Church, Atlanta, and president of the Georgia Baptist Convention from its organization until his death, contains the class-rooms in which the work of the English Preparatory Department is done. The entire third floor is devoted to science work, one room being a well-supplied chemical laboratory, one a physical laboratory, another a biological laboratory, and a fourth a lecture room.

Sale Hall, erected at a cost of $40,000 and occupied in October, 1910, is named in honor of President George Sale. It has a well lighted and ventilated basement with two rooms. One, containing the Manual Training Shop, is fitted with benches and sets of tools for instruction in wood-working; the other, a gymnasium, has shower-baths supplied with hot and cold water. The building is three stories above basement and contains recitation rooms for Divinity School, College, and Academy, a reception room, offices, library, and a beautiful chapel with a seating capacity of seven hundred. Connected with this building is a central heating plant.

The large demands made on Graves Hall have for years rendered the need for another dormitory imperative. Robert Hall is the outgrowth of this demand. This building was completed in 1916 at a total cost of $30,000. The basement floor is used as a dining-room. The three main floors above are devoted wholly to dormitory purposes, there being one or two suites for teachers. The size and proportion of the rooms, and the electric lighting and other conveniences, render this in every way one of the most satisfactory college dormitories in the South.

In addition to these buildings there are others for special purposes. The President's residence is a beautiful two-story brick house of a style of architecture in harmony with that of the larger buildings.

The School Garden

About four acres have been set apart for the school garden. Regular class instruction is given in gardening, and vegetables and small fruits are raised for the college table. Cold frames and hotbeds are used during the winter months, and instruction given in their use.

SUPPORT

Morehouse College is conducted under the auspices of the American Baptist Home Mission Society of the Northern states. For its main support it depends upon a yearly grant from the funds of the Society.

Cook Memorial Chair

A fund of $20,000, a portion of the bequest of Mr. Josiah W. Cook, of Cambridge, Mass., has been set apart for the endowment of the President's chair under the name of "The Cook Memorial Chair."

Student Labor and Beneficiary Fund

This fund depends for its support upon contributions from churches, societies, and individuals. There is need of large additions to this fund in order to extend the usefulness of the college. The President will gladly correspond with churches, individuals, Sunday schools, and young people's societies with reference to this fund.

Current Expenses

For current expenses of each session, the College is dependent upon the fees paid by students for board, tuition, etc.

Need of Endowment

The location of the school is most excellent; the buildings are substantial and well-built, and are kept in thorough repair. So far as grounds and buildings are concerned, these have been secured with a view to permanence. The character of the work done and the increasing efficiency of every department insure the highest and most lasting results in the lives of the students and those among whom they labor. There is need of substantial endowment to relieve the burden upon the Home Mission Society, and to insure the permanence of the College. Money so invested will yield rich returns in good accomplished by the College.

GENERAL ADVANTAGES

Library

The library now contains over three thousand volumes. It is situated in Sale Hall and is supplied with a judicious selection of newspapers and magazines. Valuable additions have been made during the year, and new works are constantly being added. All students have daily access to the library. The college is grateful at all times for gifts that help to increase the resources and facilities of the Library.

Religious Privileges

This is emphatically a Christian school. The faculty keeps constantly in mind the fact that it was founded by a missionary organization, and is sustained by the contributions of Christian people for the Christian education of young men. While, therefore, we seek to give the best possible instruction in the literary and industrial branches, stress is placed upon moral training and the development of consecrated workers. Self-mastery, symmetrical character, high ideals and purposes are regarded as the chief ends of education.

Special attention is given to the spiritual needs of the student. The Bible has a place in the regular course of study. In the life and discipline of the school, constant effort is made to inculcate Christian principles.

Besides the daily morning and evening devotions, religious exercises are held as follows: Sunday, 1:30 P. M., Y. M. C. A.; 7:00 P. M., Preaching Service; Thursday, 6:45 P. M., Prayer-Meeting. These meetings have always proved a source of great blessing in the quickening of spiritual life among the students.

Students are allowed to attend the Sunday schools and the day services in the city churches on Sundays.

Care of Health

Constant watchcare is maintained over the health of the students. The College has an isolated infirmary where sick students may be quite apart from the rest of the school and receive special attention.

Student Activities

There are several societies and student organizations connected with the College. The Young Men's Christian Association, for the spiritual improvement of the members and for religious work, is one of the most active organizations in the institution. It meets weekly, and under its direction numbers of students are assigned work in the various churches and Sunday schools of the city. Opportunity is thus afforded students for practical Christian work outside the College. The Bible Band also meets once a week. The Ministers' Union is an organization composed of members of the Divinity School; its object is generally to discuss subjects of interest to those looking forward to the ministry as a profession. The Pi Gamma Literary Society is composed of students of collegiate grade in Morehouse College and Spelman Seminary. It seeks general improvement along literary lines, and its meetings are held once a month. The Athenæum Publishing Company publishes each month during the school year The Athenæum, the organ of the alumni and students of Morehouse College and Spelman Seminary. Two debating societies, the College Debating Society and the Academic Debating Society, meet every other week. Under the supervision of the faculty, intercollegiate debating is allowed and encouraged; and for the last seven years Morehouse College has engaged in a triangular contest each year with Knoxville College and Talladega College. This year the Triangular League has been enlarged by admitting Fisk University and forming the Quadrangular Debating League. The Science and Mathematics Club furnishes splendid opportunities to those interested in all scientific development. The Glee Club and the Orchestra, both under the general direction of the Instructor in Music, offer peculiar opportunities to those who wish to improve in singing and in the use of musical instruments. The Athletic Association, a student organization, generally directs the energies of its members along the lines of football, baseball, basketball, and tennis. It also encourages track meets and, from time to time, in conference with the faculty Director of Athletics, it arranges intercollegiate contests in the various divisions of athletics. Generally, Morehouse College encourages all activities—religious, literary, athletic—which make for the development of Christian ideals and for the culture of a sound mind in a sound body.

GOVERNMENT

Admission

All students must furnish satisfactory testimonials respecting their moral character and habits. If they come from other schools they are required to present certificates of reputable dismission and records of their class work from the proper authorities.

While students may enter at any time, it is very important that they be present on the first day of the school year, that no time be lost in commencing work.

Students from a distance are required to board at the college building.

Examinations and Promotions

On entering the college, students are examined for classification. Care is exercised to place the student where he can work to the best advantage. Examinations are held at the close of each half of the school year. Upon the results of these examinations, with those of the daily recitations, promotions are determined.

Rules

In the regulation of the conduct of the student, it is the aim of the faculty to govern by principles rather than rules. All requirements are based on the Golden Rule, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them." Regulations exist for the good of the student to secure to him in the highest possible degree the end for which he comes to college. The aim is to produce self-control, and to secure the cheerful acquiescence of the student in rules that are made for the good of all.

With these ends in view, regularity and punctuality at all regular exercises are required; absence from the grounds is permitted only by special excuse of the teachers; hours set apart for study are to be sacredly observed, and students are required to retire at a stated hour.

Correct personal habits are inculcated; cleanliness and neatness are required; the use of intoxicating liquors and tobacco and the possession of firearms or other dangerous weapons are forbidden. College sports and games are allowed and encouraged under restrictions that prevent danger to health and neglect of regular school duties. In general, such watchfulness is maintained as will insure, as far as possible, good health, progress in study, and the development of manly qualities and moral character.

In the Academic course the scholarships offered are as follows: In the fourth year one scholarship of $25 and one of $20; in the third year one scholarship of $25; in the second year one of $20; and in the first year one of $12. In each case the amount is to be placed to the credit of the winner, and is to be applied in payment of fees for the year for which the scholarship is held.

In the Elementary English course scholarships will be offered in each year amounting to one year's tuition in the next year above.

These scholarships are given on condition that the holders be present, and that they maintain uniformly good deportment for the full term for which the scholarship is held. No scholarship is awarded to one whose yearly average is less than 80.

Ripley Scholarship

By the will of the late Mrs. Ann Oswald Ripley, widow of the Rev. Henry Ripley, D.D., of Newton Center, Mass., a scholarship of $40 a year has been established in Morehouse College for the benefit of those who have the ministry in view.

Affiliated Academy Scholarships

By vote of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, the following Academies, aided yearly by the society, are affiliated with Morehouse College: Americus Institute, Americus, Ga.; Jeruel Academy, Athens, Ga.; Walker Baptist Institute, Augusta, Ga.; Florida Institute, Live Oak, Fla.; Florida Baptist Academy, Jacksonville, Fla. A first scholarship of $25 is offered each year to the student in the Senior Class of these Academies taking highest rank, and entering Morehouse College. A second scholarship of $20 under similar conditions is awarded at each institution. The amount of the scholarship is to apply to the payment of fees, and to be payable on the same conditions as those offered in the College classes.

PRIZES

Through the kindness of Mr. Willard D. Chamberlin, of Dayton, Ohio, two cash prizes of thirty dollars each are awarded each year for the encouragement of Bible study and reading. These prizes are known as the Willard Chamberlin Scripture Reading Prize and the Samuel Graves Scripture Recitation Prize. They are open for competition to students in any department of the school.

For several years Mr. F. J. Paxon, of Atlanta, has kindly given each year the sum of fifteen dollars for prizes in public speaking. Ten dollars is awarded each year to that student in the College who delivers the best oration, and five dollars to that student in the Academy who delivers the best reading or declamation.

For several years Pres. J. J. Starks, A.B., '98, of Sumter, S. C., has offered a prize of ten dollars to be awarded to that student in the Academy or College who shall from his record during the school year be deemed the best man of affairs and the most helpful Christian gentleman as well as a faithful student.

For the last seven years Mr. Joseph D. Avent, A.B., '07, of Tallahassee, Fla., has offered a prize of ten dollars to be known as the Edgar Allan Poe Short Story Prize and to be awarded to that student in the College who shall write the best original short story.

Entrance

Students who look forward to entering the College should fill out as fully as possible the application blank which will be furnished by the College office. The requirement for entrance upon the work of the College is the satisfactory completion of the work of the Academy outlined on pages 44-46. In general it may be said that Morehouse College insists upon the minimum of fifteen units for entrance upon College work required by reputable colleges throughout the country. A unit in any subject represents a year's study, constituting approximately a quarter of a full year's work in the secondary school. The four-year high school course is taken as a basis, and it is assumed that the length of the school year is from thirty-six to forty weeks, that a recitation period is from forty to sixty minutes in length, and that a study is pursued for four or five periods a week. In all cases except those of students from specially affiliated schools, or from other institutions in the Association of Colleges for Negro Youth, of which Morehouse College is a member, the College reserves the right to examine as fully as may seem necessary all candidates who present themselves for entrance.

Requirements for Degree

The requirement for graduation is the satisfactory completion of the work of eighteen courses. A course is the pursuit of one subject throughout a school year, with four recitations a week. A half-course is a subject similarly pursued for half a year, or a subject pursued throughout a school year with two recitations a week.

On the basis of 18 courses required, in each year a student should pass in an average of four and one-half courses; and no man is catalogued with a class if delinquent in more than one full course.

Each program of study for the college course must be so arranged as to include a Major of four courses from some one of five important groups or divisions of study, and a Minor of three courses from some other group or division. The following are the five groups used:

1. The Classics.
2. Modern Language (including English; but English 5, an elementary course in composition required of all students, while counting of course as one of the college courses, will not count as satisfying this elective principle). (English 6, though required of all, may also count with the electives.)
3. Natural Science.
4. History, Political and Social Science.
5. Philosophy and Mathematics.

In addition each program of study must include the following:

1. At least one course in English Composition.
2. One course in English Literature.
3. One course in Modern Language other than English.

4. One course in Mathematics.
5. One course in Natural Science.
6. One course in Social Science.
7. One course in History.
8. One course in Philosophy (Psychology is prerequisite to Ethics).

In fulfillment of the above requirements the following courses are regularly open to Freshmen if their previous preparation is adequate:

English 5	German 2
Latin 5	History 1, 2 or 3
Greek 2	Mathematics 1, 2, 3, or 4.
Greek 3	Chemistry 2
French 1	Agriculture
German 1	Bible 4

After the Freshman year students may in any year enter any courses for which their preparation is adequate and which will be in harmony with the principle of Major and Minor already remarked. In the detailed description of courses that follows, the prerequisites for the more advanced courses are stated in each case. Certain courses (notably Ethics, Economics, Sociology, History 4, and Education) are regularly reserved for students of Junior or Senior grade.

DESCRIPTION OF COURSES

English

English 5. (The number of the course, for convenience, follows on the numbers of courses in the Academy.) In the work of this course, which is required of all Freshmen, the emphasis is on practical work in composition. The large aim of the course is the development of power in expression. Attention is given to the theory of Description, Narration, Exposition, and Argumentation; but at least five-sixths of the lessons of the year are assignments in composition. Papers range in length from 200 to 2,000 words. In addition to numerous smaller themes in each of the large fields mentioned, and including the writing of anecdotes, news items, editorials, and sketches, each member of the course is required to write a short story, a full piece of work in exposition, two orations, two long briefs, one forensic, and two book reviews. Necessarily most of the reading consists of library assignments, but the following texts are required: Foster's Argumentation and Debating; Cairns's Forms of Discourse; Erskine's Written English; Shakespeare's The Tempest; and the classics in Maynard's English Classic Series giving Macaulay's Essay on Byron, De Quincey's Joan of Arc, and selections from Ruskin's Modern Painters.

Professors Brawley and Harris.

English 6. This course covers in broad outline the field of English Literature from Anglo-Saxon times to the present. The method of study emphasizes detail and technique as well as appreciation. Texts: Manly's Prose and Poetry (subject to change in 1920-21), and Shakespeare's The Two Gentlemen of Verona, and Othello, the one to represent the dramatist in his experimental period, and the other to represent him as a finished artist. Papers are called for at any time. The course is required before graduation and is given every year.

Professors Brawley and Strong.

In addition to the above courses in English, which are required of all students, the department offers three elective courses, any one of which will be given in any year in which not less than five students apply for the same. These are as follows:

English 7. The Forms of Public Address, an advanced course in composition with special attention to oratory, debating, and practical public speaking. Text: Baker's "The Forms of Public Address." Prerequisite: English 5; may be taken in same year as English 6. (To be offered every year.)

Professors Brawley and Harris.

English 8. The English Drama, a course requiring the rapid reading of not less than fifty plays, with intensive study of one or two. More than half of Shakespeare's plays are read, with special attention to dramatic technique. One long paper on some subject in connection with the course is required in the first term; in the second term, in addition to the reading, one original play is to be planned in detail and one act of the same fully written out. Among the texts are Manly's Specimens of the Pre-Shakespearean Drama and Thayer's Best Elizabethan Plays; but most of the plays studied are in single editions. Prerequisites: English 5 and 6. (Not given in 1919-20; to be given in 1920-21.)

PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

ENGLISH 9. The History of the English Language, a course concerned with grammatical questions and giving an introduction to philology, to be taken to best advantage by those who have had as much Latin, Greek, French, and German as possible. Considerable attention is paid to Chaucer and other early writers, and in general the course is planned only for those who wish to pursue English technically. Prerequisites: English 5 and 6. (Not offered in 1919-20; to be given whenever there are at least five applicants.) PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

Greek

The courses in Greek are designed to follow upon the course in elementary Greek in the Academy; but Greek 2 will not count for college credit unless the program of preparatory work offered for college entrance includes both Physics and Chemistry.

GREEK 2. Xenophon's Anabasis, 4 Books, with practice in composition.

GREEK 3. Plato's Apology and Crito, and Homer's Iliad, 3 Books. PROFESSOR HAYNES.

GREEK 4. Homer's Odyssey, 2 Books, Sophocles's Antigone, and Demosthenes's Philippics.

LATIN 5. In this course the reading consists of Cicero's De Senectute, Livy, Book XXI, and Horace's Odes.

LATIN 6. In this course the ground covered consists of further reading in Horace, Tacitus's Germania, and Terence's Phormio, with study of Roman life.

PROFESSOR DENSLOW.

German

GERMAN 1. In the first year attention is given mainly to the mastering of elementary German grammar. To increase the student's vocabulary of conversational words and idiomatic expressions, some easy text dealing with German life and customs is read during the second semester, and conversation is based upon this. Songs and poems are memorized. German is used in the classroom as far as practicable.

PROFESSOR DENSLOW.

GERMAN 2. In the second year one short story and one of Schiller's classics are read. The study of German grammar is continued. Stories are told in German which form the basis of composition.

Conversation is used as far as practicable in the classroom. PROFESSOR DENSLOW.

French

FRENCH 1. A course in elementary French giving a thorough drill in the elements of grammar and composition, followed by the reading of graded selections of connected French prose, the general aim being to afford a basis for a good reading knowledge of the French language. Texts: Aldrich and Foster's Elementary French, and French Reader.

PROFESSOR DENSLOW.

FRENCH 2. This is mainly a reading course devoted to the study of several standard French texts of intermediate grade, including at least one novel and one play. Familiarity with the language is facilitated by conversation, dictation, and original composition. PROFESSOR DENSLOW.

Mathematics

The aim of instruction in this department is to form habits of accurate and precise expression, to develop the power of independent and logical thinking, and to teach the methods and principles of each subject.

MATHEMATICS 1. This is a half-course in Solid Geometry. It makes clear the concepts of three-dimensional space. Industrial problems and concrete applications are given to show the use and value of the fundamental theorems. Required as early in the college course as possible. Text: Wentworth's Solid Geometry, revised. PROFESSOR ARCHER.

MATHEMATICS 2. This, a half-course in College Algebra, after a rapid review of quadratic equations, considers higher equations and systems, the progressions, the binomial theorem, logarithms, interest and annuities, and the series. Required as early in the college course as possible. Text: Wentworth's College Algebra, revised. PROFESSOR ARCHER.

MATHEMATICS 3. The half-course in Trigonometry extends through the solution of triangles. The course aims to give the fundamental formulæ of trigonometry and a permanent command of logarithms. Required as early as possible in the college course. Text: Wells's Plane Trigonometry.
PROFESSOR ARCHER.

MATHEMATICS 4. An elective half-course in Analytic Geometry gives the different systems of plane co-ordinates; equation of loci, straight lines, conic sections and their elementary properties; equations of second degree; common higher plane curves.
PROFESSOR ARCHER.

History

Five half-courses in History are offered, all being open to students above the Freshman year. Two are required, and the two must include History 1. Ordinarily two or three are given in a semester.

HISTORY 1. A half-course in the Foundations of Modern Europe. The work follows in general the plan of Trenholme's A Syllabus for the History of Western Europe. Matters purely political and military are given less attention than is ordinarily given to them in more elementary courses. More stress is laid upon territorial changes, constitutional developments, internal reforms, and other economic and social phenomena. At least one thesis of not less than four thousand words upon some topic assigned in connection with the course is required of each student. Text: Robinson's Mediæval and Modern History (together with the abridged edition of the Readings by the same author). PROFESSOR MOORE.

HISTORY 2. An advanced half-course in English History. Text: Cross's A History of England.
PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

HISTORY 3. A half-course in American History. The work is intended to be advanced and intensive. The chief text is Ashley's American History, with library assignments. PROFESSOR MOORE.

HISTORY 4. A half-course in the essentials of the history of the Negro in America. In general method the plan of the work follows that of the chief text, Brawley's A Short History of the American Negro (revised edition); but much attention is paid to the same author's The Negro in Literature and Art, and there is wide reading in such authorities in history as Du Bois, Blake, and Williams. A thesis is required, and in general the work is designed to meet the needs of those who desire training in independent study. PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

HISTORY 5. A half-course dealing with recent and contemporary European history. Special emphasis is placed upon European expansion in South America, Africa, and the Far East. Text: Robinson and Beard's The Development of Modern Europe, vols. I and II. PROFESSOR MOORE.

Economics

A full course, conducted by means of class discussions, assigned readings, and lectures. The aim is to acquaint the student with the development and significance of the industrial organization of society, the principles governing the consumption, production, and distribution of wealth, and such representative economic problems as labor movements and legislation, taxation, transportation, etc. The course is made thoroughly practical by directing the attention and thought of students to current economic problems and activities. Special emphasis is placed upon the economic history and activities of the Negro in American Life. Text: Seager's Introduction to Economics. (Not given in 1919-20; to be given in 1920-21.) PROFESSOR MOORE.

Sociology

SOCIOLOGY 1. A full course in the Principles of Sociology, conducted by means of class discussions, assigned readings, lectures, and field work. The aims of the course are to acquaint the student with the theories of social progress and with social factors and forces now at work; to give an elementary knowledge of statistics; and to give practical experience in studying groups. Each student is required to take part in an investigation of some problem in the life of the Negro in Atlanta. Text: Carver's Sociology and Social Progress. (Given in 1919-20; not given in 1920-21.) PROFESSOR MOORE.

SOCIOLOGY 2. An elective half-course in Modern Philanthropy, conducted by means of class discussions, lectures, required readings, and field work. The course aims to acquaint the student with the leading urban, rural, and national problems connected with the social life of to-day; the economic, biological, psychological, and sociological basis of Philanthropy; and the most effective remedies employed by modern philanthropists. Each student is required to analyze a number of cases handled in the city of Atlanta and to engage in some form of voluntary social service. PROFESSOR MOORE.

Philosophy

In Logic and Psychology half-courses are given, and in Ethics a full course is given, as follows:

LOGIC. The outlines of formal Logic are studied with special attention to terms and their meaning, to the logical import of propositions with a view to inculcating accuracy of statement, and to analysis of arguments and detection of fallacies.

PROFESSOR ARCHER.

PSYCHOLOGY. The course takes up the nervous system; sensation and organs of sense; the facts of consciousness studied from the natural science point of view; perception, memory, imagination, emotion, the will, and the relation of Psychology to Philosophy and Ethics. Text: Angell's Psychology.

PROFESSOR CARROLL.

ETHICS. The subject of Ethics is treated historically, and the various types of ethical theory traced in their development from ancient times. Search is made for the elements of truth in all theories, and the superiority of the ethics of Christianity is shown. Prerequisite: Psychology. PROFESSOR HOPE.

Education

In connection with the Teachers' Professional Department of Spelman Seminary, a full course in the subjects of Education and Pedagogy is given. The first half of the year is devoted to the History of Education; the second half is devoted to Pedagogy.

Government

GOVERNMENT 2. An advanced half-course in American Government and Politics. Text: Beard's American Government and Politics (together with the Readings by Beard). PROFESSOR MOORE.

English Bible

BIBLE 4. In the Freshman Year a half-course in the study of the English Bible is required.

PROFESSOR HUBERT.

Physics

Physics 2. About one-half the time is given to class discussions, lecture-table demonstrations, quizzes, and problems; the rest to laboratory work. During the first term emphasis is laid upon mechanics, molecular physics, and heat, followed in the second term by electricity, sound, and light. The method of treatment is analytical. The course presupposes a full course in Descriptive Physics and one in Trigonometry. Text: Kimball's College Physics.

Professor Harvey.

Chemistry

Chemistry 2. Qualitative Analysis. It is the object of this course to give a definite idea of the fundamental laws of General Chemistry with special reference to their application in Qualitative Analysis. The subject matter is discussed in the combined lectures, recitations, and quizzes. The laboratory work includes the study and use of different methods used in the qualitative analysis of simple and mixed solutions and solids. Chemistry 1 or its equivalent is a prerequisite. Professor Harvey.

Chemistry 3. Quantitative Analysis. In this course the study of the fundamental laws of General Chemistry is continued with emphasis on those of importance in Quantitative Analysis. A short course in Chemical Arithmetic will be given during the second semester. The laboratory work includes all the simple determination and separation of the common metals and acids by both gravimetric and volumetric methods and some electro-chemical methods. A short course in applied chemistry will also be completed during the second semester. Prerequisite: Chemistry 2. PROFESSOR HARVEY.

CHEMISTRY 4. Organic Chemistry. A lecture course with laboratory work. The lectures cover the general principles of organic chemistry and a description of typical compounds. The laboratory work includes ultimate organic analysis, the determination of some of the important physical constants, and organic preparations. The methods followed are those given in Cohen's Practical Organic Chemistry or some standard work of similar scope. Prerequisites: Chemistry 2 and 3.

PROFESSOR HARVEY.

Geology

The purpose of the course in Geology is to set forth clearly the present status of knowledge relative to the science. The theoretical and interpretative elements enter in and help to clear up hypothetical elements and also to stimulate thought. Half of the time is given to laboratory work including the examination and study of topographical maps, folios, and other publications of the United States Geological Survey, and of minerals and fossils. Field work is emphasized. A thesis of two thousand words on some assigned subject is required of each student. The classification of plants, animals, and rocks is included. Prerequisites: Physics 2; Chemistry 2. Text: Norton's Geology. PROFESSOR WARDLAW.

Biology

Zoology 1. This is an introductory course in General Zoology having for its aim the threefold purpose of emphasizing the fundamental principles of zoology as a part of a liberal education, of serving as a prerequisite for students of Pure Science, and of being especially important for students contemplating the study of medicine. Text: Parker and Haswell's Manual of Zoology.

Professor O. L. Johnson.

Botany 2. This course covers briefly the vegetative world, giving special emphasis to Plant Physiology, Morphology, Ecology, Evolution, and Economic Botany. The course is designed to meet the needs of the students who may desire to teach and those who contemplate the study of Medicine or Pharmacy. Text: Bergen and Davis' Principles of Botany.

Professor O. L. Johnson.

Physiology 2. This course, somewhat apart from the purely descriptive physiology, presupposes such a course. It is concerned primarily with the normal functioning of the human body, meeting the needs of those who plan teaching, serving as a prerequisite to the study of Mental Sciences as well as giving students of Pure Science exact knowledge of the structure of the human body. Text: Hough and Sedgwick's Human Mechanism (subject to change in 1920-21.) Professor O. L. Johnson.

Agriculture

This course is offered to college students who have but a short time to give to the subject and who desire a brief survey of the whole field. The aim of the course is to interest the students in growing plants and animals, and to acquaint them with some of the fundamental principles of this growth, not that they may necessarily become farmers, but for the educational training and intelligent interest in the daily life of the community and the nation that this knowledge brings. The course is conducted by means of text-book (Warren's Elements of Agriculture), lectures, laboratory and field work. (Not given in 1919-20; to be given in 1920-21.)

Manual Training.

A special course is offered as an elective to students above the Freshman year, being designed primarily for the training of those who may be called upon to teach the subject. The course includes the arrangement, names and care of tools, cardboard construction, knife-work, exercises in sawing and planing, the designing and construction of small articles, mechanical drawing, and the planning and making of furniture. (Not given in 1919-20; to be given whenever there are as many as four applicants.)

Entrance.

Students who regularly complete the work of the eighth grade at Morehouse College automatically pass into the Academy. In the case of all others examinations are given as far as may seem necessary. Every candidate for the first year should thoroughly have completed the work in Arithmetic, Grammar, Advanced Geography, Reading, and United States History required in the eighth grade of a standard grammar school. It is very necessary that students enter promptly at the beginning of the school year. If they do not they are not allowed to take regular work.

Courses.

The aim is to increase the latitude in the arrangement of programs of study in the Academy. Every program offered for the completion of the course, however, must contain sixteen full units (a unit being the work done in a class reciting daily throughout the year), aside from the work required in Music and Bible. Furthermore, in the sixteen units there must in any case finally be four in English, two in foreign language (Latin), two in Mathematics, one in History and one in Natural Science (Physics or Chemistry). These ten units are required of all students whether classical or scientific. Six units are thus left for the working of the elective principle. Students are warned, especially in the third and fourth years, to arrange these in conference with the Dean in view of their plans for the future. A failure to plan wisely might later result in the loss of a year. A strictly classical student (one looking toward the ministry or the teaching of any language) would take a total of 4 units in Latin and 2 in Greek. A prospective law student should take 4 in Latin, not necessarily any in Greek, but all the history possible. A future student of medicine or dentistry should in any case include Physiology and Chemistry in his program. One who wishes to work later in applied science (that is, agriculture, engineering, mechanics, etc.) should by all means take manual training, physics and chemistry, and in most cases physiology also.

On the basis of 16 units required for the course, each student should complete each year 4 full units, aside from the work in Music and Bible. Thus the student entering the fourth year should already have to his credit 12 units. No student will be catalogued with the class above if delinquent in more than 1 unit.

Latin

The object of instruction in Greek and Latin is to give the letter and spirit of the classics, and to improve English expression. With this purpose in view, word forms, word groups and idioms are studied.

Attention is given to English words of Greek or Latin origin. Translation is required in easy, idiomatic English, and the courses are further enhanced by historical reference and art illustration. The work of the four years of Latin in the Classical Course is as follows:

Latin 1. In the first year daily drill is given in the fundamentals of Latin grammar, selections in Latin authors of increasing difficulty being read in the later months of the course. Text: Collar and Daniell's First Year Latin.

Latin 2. Cæsar's Commentaries, 4 Books, with practice in Composition.

Latin 3. Cicero: 4 Orations against Catiline, and oration Pro Poeta Archia. Sallust's Catiline. Composition.

Latin 4. Virgil's Aeneid, 6 Books. Composition.

Greek

Greek 1. In the third year of the Classical Course Elementary Greek is given. Text: Benner & Smith's Beginner's Greek Book.

Greek 2. Xenophon's Anabasis, 4 books, with practice in composition. Required in the fourth year of the Classical Course.

Mathematics

Algebra 1. Throughout the first year daily instruction is given in the fundamentals of Algebra. Text: Wells and Hart's Algebra for Secondary Schools.

GEOMETRY 1. A full year of Plane Geometry is given, in the second year for classical students and in the third year for Scientific. Text: Wentworth and Smith's Plane Geometry.

GEOMETRY 2 AND TRIGONOMETRY. Half-courses in Solid Geometry and Plane Trigonometry in fourth year of Scientific Course. Texts: Wentworth's Solid Geometry, revised, and Wells's Plane Trigonometry.

History and Civics

Three half-courses in History and Civics are offered in the earlier years of the Academy as follows:

(1) CIVICS. An elementary half-course in Civil Government is designed to impress the fundamental principles of American government. Text: Boynton's Civics.

(2) GREEK AND ROMAN HISTORY. With the specific purpose of supplementing the work in Latin, and with the still larger purpose of general culture, a half-course in the outlines of Greek and Roman History is given in the third year of the Classical Course. Text: Botsford's Ancient History.

(3) ENGLISH HISTORY. In the last half of the second year a half-course in English History is given not only to broaden the student's information but also to furnish a background for the study of the English classics to follow. Text: Montgomery's English History.

(4) General History, or Commercial Law. In the fourth year of the Scientific Course a course in either one of these subjects is given running throughout the year.

Physics

Physics 1. This course is offered in such a way as to bring out the relation of Physics to daily life. It embraces physical measurements in Mechanics, Sound, Light, and Electricity. Four periods a week are given to laboratory work. Text: Mann and Twiss's Physics, with Wauchope's laboratory manual.

Chemistry

Chemistry 1. The course comprises lectures, recitations and quizzes. Four hours a week are given to laboratory work. It is the aim to give a clear idea of the field of Descriptive Chemistry. Emphasis is laid upon the laws, theories, and applications of Chemistry. Text: McPherson and Henderson's First Course in Chemistry, with manual to accompany the text.

Botany

A full course in Botany, with laboratory and field work, is given, to be taken preferably in the first year. Text: Bergen's Elements of Botany.

Physiography

A full course in Physical Georgraphy is given, to be taken to best advantage in the first year. The work is illustrated by the projection lantern and by field and laboratory work.

Physiology

A full year course in descriptive Physiology for either scientific or classical students. Text: Blaisdell's Life and Health.

Manual Training

The course in Manual Training presupposes a course in wood-working. The work of the year is in cabinet-making and mechanical drawing. The student designs, makes, and upholsters some piece of furniture on the Arts and Crafts style. The other work is in geometrical drawing, isometric projections, and copying from machine patterns. Text: Cross's Mechanical Drawing.

Music

Instruction in Vocal Music, with two lessons a week, is given throughout the first two years of the course. In the third year the work is continued, with emphasis on the history and theory of Music.

English Bible

Two lessons a week are given throughout the course, the object being to give a comprehensive knowledge of the whole Bible.

The inadequacy of the instruction given in the Public Schools, especially in the country, whence many of our best students come, renders it necessary to maintain the eighth grade. The sixth and seventh grades carried through 1919-20 will be dropped hereafter.

Students who finish the work of this grade are thoroughly prepared to enter the classes of the Academic Course of the College, or to pass the State examination for teachers. A thorough and systematic review of the Elementary Branches is planned in order that a student may have a practical knowledge as well as a basis for a business knowledge.

The work in Agriculture gives each student some knowledge of preparing and caring for gardens, choice of live stock and poultry, detecting diseases of plants and animals, and of the methods of eradication of the common pests of plants and animals.

The aim of the Manual Training is to teach the names and uses of tools, the use of the hand as well as the brain, and accuracy along all lines of work. The next aim is to develop the power of concentration. Every student is given work in Manual Training for two hours and a half every week.

The work of the course is in the following subjects:

Arithmetic	Penmanship
Drawing	Reading
Geography	Spelling
Grammar	Literature
Bible	United States History
Cardboard Construction	Physiology
Wood Working	Music
